What a great day for football. I had New Orleans in my Survivor pool and I had to sweat it out but they won. We are getting ready to watch the Patriots beat the Colts.

I'm trying a new recipe for Caribbean chicken wings. Smells delicious.

Two houses on my street decorated their place with Christmas lights. It's a little early for me. Mom would have have been after me to start decorating our house but I wait til after Thanksgiving.

That's about it for today.

Go Pats